Proposal for a
COUNCIL DECISION
on the grant of food aid in the form of cereals to Bolivia

(submitted to the Council by the Commission)

COM(82) 893 final

Explanatory memorandum

1. Bolivia is the second poorest Latin American country after Haiti. Its economy today, moreover, is in a parlous condition, both structural and cyclical. One needs only consider the following:
  - Bolivia is a landlocked country with a harsh terrain and a 70% rural population, most of whom are marginal farmers in the Andes, scraping a living from arid ground at 3 000-4 000 metres altitude and living in extreme poverty (annual income approx. US $ 1000). The rest are miners, living in equally precarious circumstances.
  - The economy is based partly on a backward agricultural sector (cereal deficit of about 400 000 tonnes for a total population of 5.8m) and partly on mineral resources (tin is virtually the only export) which are not locally processed, and for which world prices are depressed (sale of US strategic reserves).
  - The economic indicators are disastrous: inflation at 200 %, 30 % unemployment, an external public debt of US $ 4bn (Bolivia cannot even keep up the interest payments; debt servicing takes around 30 % of export earnings), and negative foreign currency reserves (US $ 250m).

2. Since the military coup in 1980, Bolivia has received no direct aid from the Community, and the flow of international aid in general is much reduced. In the meantime, the country's situation both economic and social has gone from bad to worse. Natural disasters have exacerbated the problem, and the Community has been unable to provide any adequate relief.

3. In March and April this year north-east Bolivia - Beni, Cochabamba and Santa Cruz - suffered severe flooding. Bolivian Red Cross reports which have reached the Commission estimate that 30 000 people were rendered totally destitute, losing their houses, livestock (about 50 000 head in all) and crops (rice, sugar cane, cotton, bananas and yucca). According to the latest information, these people are still at bare subsistence level and threatened by disease and starvation.
4. In April the Community sent some emergency aid under Article 950 of the Budget (cut in the event from an initial 100 000 ECU to 45 000 ECU), which was used to provide urgently needed agricultural implements, mosquito nets, cooking utensils, blankets and tents, etc., distributed free of charge under the aegis of the Red Cross.
5. Bolivia has now sent the Commission a request for food aid in the form of cereals and skimmed-milk powder.

The food will be used in social relief programmes and sold to beneficiaries at nominal prices in order to generate counterpart funds to cover distribution and transport costs. It will be distributed by government action committees, working closely with representatives of the church (Caritas), the UNDP and the Bolivian Red Cross.

6. The Commission proposes that the Council decide to grant Bolivia 10 000 tonnes of cereals and 423 tonnes of milk as food aid from the reserves<sup>1)</sup> constituted under the 1982 food aid programmes, delivered free at destination.

This aid will be at no extra cost to the Community as it comes under appropriations already voted (Articles 920, 921 and 925 of the 1982 Budget).

Accordingly, the Commission proposes that the Council adopt the decision and regulation at annex.

<sup>1</sup> 48 500 tonnes of cereals and 923 tonnes of milk are currently still available.
