COMMISSION OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

COM (75) 545 final.

Brussels, 31 October 1975.

PROPOSAL

for a

COUNCIL REGULATION

amending Council Regulation No 259/68 laying down the Staff Regulations of Officials and the Conditions of Employment of Other Servants of the European Communities

(presented by the Commission to the Council)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

In 1971 the Commission presented a proposal to the Council to introduce new conditions of employment for staff paid from the research and investment appropriations.

Although the proposal was examined in detail at all levels within the Council, it proved impossible to reach agreement on all points.

The new proposal takes account of the main views emerging from these discussions and attempts to reconcile the need to guarantee satisfactory operation of the research departments with the desire to retain the legal framework of the Conditions of Employment of Other Servants of the Communities while respecting acquired rights.

The new provisions are explained below.

I. ARTICLE 1 of the proposal

Article 1 (Conditions of Employment)

This Article abolishes the category of establishment staff of the JRC. The purpose of the Commission's proposal is to extend the conditions of employment of temporary staff to include establishment staff paid from the research appropriations, with allowance made for certain special provisions.

The reason for abolishing this category is the need to put an end to the most serious forms of discrimination they suffer, which have often had an adverse effect on the working atmosphere and hence on the efficient operation of the Centre.

The solution proposed also affects local staff paid from the research appropriations, who must be considered together with establishment staff as regards both the duties they perform and the salary arrangements currently applying to them.

Article 2

The new paragraph (d) is designed to make it possible to fill a permanent post temporarily - but for a period long enough to meet research requirements.

Article 4

Deletion of the final paragraph of this Article is consequential upon the removal of the establishment staff category from Article 1.

Article 8

The proposal here is to lay down the maximum period of employment of temporary staff paid from the research and investment appropriations.

The first indent applies to Category A or B staff engaged to perform scientific or technical duties. Since the maximum period of employment at present under the second paragraph of Article 8 of the Conditions of Employment of Other Servants is three years, provision must be made for a longer period to take account of the duration of the programmes involved and at the same time ensure that temporary staff can have their contracts renewed in the interests of the service.

The second indent will make it possible to conclude contracts for an indefinite period with Category A or B staff performing administrative duties and with Category C or D staff. The nature of the duties involved (they are not affected by changes of substance in the programmes) justifies this measure.

Article 16

The second and third paragraphs of this Article limit paid sick leave to the length of time worked by the servant. This is not compatible with periods of employment which may be considerably longer than those envisaged by the authors of the present text.

Article 20

This Article will continue to apply, except as regards basic salary, where there is to be a special scale under which Category A and B salaries will be the same as those of officials in these categories, while Category C and D salaries will be 5% lower than those of officials in these categories.

Article 28

At present, sickness insurance for temporary staff is provided only during their period of service. Since it is proposed to grant pension rights to research staff covered by this proposal, sickness cover should also be provided for those in receipt of retirement pension.

Articles 34 and 39

In Article 39 it is proposed that the right to retirement pension already enjoyed by one category of temporary staff be extended to research staff as well. If we are to be in a position to recruit high-quality staff who will have to withdraw from their own national social security schemes, we must be able to give them pension rights for their period of service with the Commission. Consequently, as their contracts may be relatively short, the requirement of ten years' service should be abolished for this category of staff.

It would therefore be logical to grant the survivor's pension to persons entitled under a deceased servant who was in receipt of retirement pension or had asked for his pension to be deferred until the age of sixty. This is the reasoning behind the proposed amendment to Article 34 of the Conditions of Employment.

Article 47

It has become clear that the provisions relating to the period of notice for contracts of indefinite duration are not adequate for the staff covered by this proposal. Contrary to what is provided for in the current provisions, this category of staff may remain in service for long periods; they may even spend their whole career in the service of the institution. These are adequate grounds for extending the periods of notice.

Articles 84 to 98

In the light of Article 1 above, the current provisions for establishment staff should be deleted.

II. ARTICLE 2 (of the proposal)

This transitional provision lays down the measures needed for local and establishment staff currently employed to change over to the new contract arrangements so that the rules applying to this category of staff can be standardized and the discrimination which exists at present can be brought to an end.

amending Council Regulation No 259/68 laying down

CHAPTER II

Transitional provisions

Article 2

1. A member of the establishment or locan staff paid from the research and investment appropriations who is in service on the date on which this Regulation comes into force shall be offered a contract by the authority referred to in the first paragraph of Article 6 of the Conditions of Employment in accordance with Title II of these Conditions of Employment.

The contract shall take effect on the said date of entry into force.

2. The person concerned shall be assigned to a post in accordance with Article 10 of the Conditions of Employment.

He shall receive a basic salary such as will ensure that his net remuneration is at least equal to the net remuneration which he received before the new contract was concluded.

For the purposes of these provisions the remuneration which the person concerned would have been entitled under the former conditions of employment shall be one twelfth of the total annual remuneration, less Community tax and his contributions to national pension and social security schemes.

The family allowances which are taken into account for the purposes of the above provisions shall be those which the servant would have received under the former conditions of remuneration in respect of the first month following the conclusion of the new contract if his situation as to dependants has been the same at that time as during the month in question.

3. Establishment and local staff engaged by virtue of this Article as temporary staff under Article 2(d) of the Conditions of Employment shall not be required to serve the probationary period referred to in Article 14 of the Conditions of Employment.

4. The contract of any member of the establishment or local staff who does not accept the offer made under paragraph 1 within six months shall be terminated. In this event the person in question shall be entitled to the period of notice specified in Article 98(2) of the Conditions of Employment or in the Rules governing the Conditions of Employment of Local Staff, whichever is applicable.

CHAPTER III

Final provision

Article 3

This Regulation shall enter into force on the day following its publication in the Official Journal of the European Communities.

This Regulation shall be binding in its entirety and directly applicable in all Member States.

FINANCIAL ASPECTS

Particular mention needs to be made of the financial aspect of integrating establishment and local staff of the JRC (Article 2 of the proposal) into the new Community framework created by this proposal.

Given the basic premise used to determine the scale for Category C and D staff (5% lower than the scale for C/D officials), the planned changes could be made without any additional financial burden on the research appropriations.

The salary increases provided for in the new Community framework would be more than offset¹ by the considerable reduction in employers' contributions and costs compared to those currently paid at national level.

Since pension rights are included in the Community budget, no annual payment would be made by the institution for provident fund purposes because funds from the Community budget (excluding transfers to maintain pension rights in original pension plans) would only be disbursed when the corresponding payments were made to the staff concerned.

Furthermore, the national income tax paid by local staff² would become Community revenue since the salaries of all new staff would be subject to Community tax.

¹The scale is highly variable since estimates of the differential costs are constantly affected by the trend of salaries in the various national reference schemes and officials' salaries.

²The only local staff currently liable to Community tax are establishment staff.
